"Helping you to clear clutter and feel -

Better!"

Issue 34 - December 2011
'Christmas & beyond'

Dear Friends of Organised Chaos

Welcome to the December edition of Chaotic Times!

As you know, I'm always on the lookout for new and varied ways to help you declutter and get organised. My feeling is that the more options I can offer, the more likely it is you'll get the results you want.

This is why I get so much satisfaction from working with Clare Wildman of Clare Wildman Coaching. Clare completely embraces the benefits of decluttering and compliments my offering with her coaching skills. Earlier in the year we ran the "Too much stuff - not enough space" workshops, which were well received.

Workshops have their benefits, but of course many of you were unable to attend at the specified times and dates, or because the venue was simply too far from home.

Decluttering is always challenging, particularly in the early stages and we want to make it as easy as possible for you. This is why we have started a Facebook Group run by Clare and myself with resources and a question and answer facility via the Facebook wall.

Our first FB offering is "Making Space for Christmas", which is aimed at helping you get organised for the festive period. There's still time to get maximum benefit from joining: only £10 for support right up until 25th December.

Are you dreading the arrival of guests? Maybe buying and storing all those gifts? Or perhaps it's the thought of all that extra food and drink?

Clare and I are helping you look at planning and managing all these aspects of Christmas. Join us now and treat yourself to a calmer Christmas this year!

How do you feel when all the Christmas cards, decorations and gifts are packed away?

Do you ever feel that your home is better in this relatively minimalist style? If you think about it, this is an opportunity you can grasp. If you struggle generally to be clutter-free, why not use the impetus of "packing up Christmas" to inspire your decluttering?

Of course there's also the added bonus of January 1st for you to make a resolution around being tidier, more organised, less cluttered - take your pick!

So, in case you thought the Facebook group was just for Christmas - have we got news for you!

Clare and I have decided to start again after the Christmas break. We want to help you as you're "Packing up Christmas".

What will this entail? Well, it will be support for the month of January helping you find space for all the new Christmas presents, challenging you on what to keep and what to declutter, examining your storage issues, helping you decide how you want your home to be in 2012.

We're keeping the price at £10, which represents excellent value. Just imagine, you'll have access to a professional organiser AND a life coach for the whole of January - without even having to leave home!

You'll get to ask us about the challenges you face in your home and receive personalised responses. There will also be documents available addressing the concerns raised in the group. You will of course be able to interact with other group members, share ideas and encourage each other as you go along.

To reserve your place and get maximum benefit from day one, contact me today. I'll add your names to the list and send instructions nearer the time as to how you go about signing up.

Clare and I are excited about this new direction for our joint venture and we hope you are equally inspired!

We look forward to connecting with some of you in the run up to Christmas, and also during January. We will be limiting numbers for the January group as we want all our members to get excellent value.

So, if you're interested, please don't wait too long before getting in touch. My contact details are at the bottom of the page. If you'd rather speak to Clare, you can contact her on 01908 368607 or e-mail: changes@clarewildman.co.uk.

Well, that's all from me now until 2012. I wish all my readers a Merry Christmas and a Clutter-Free New Year!

*Best regards,
Judith*
